Bodies Found in Double Slaying Reveal Axe Was Weapon Used

charged with the larceny of this money.

Dist. Atty. Warren L. Bishop, who characterized the murder as the most atrocious he had ever encountered, is directing the search for Staslowsky.

The case suspected as the murder weapon is that found in the barn adjoining the farmhouse on Thursday. It is a heavy blade, is blunt-headed, and into a new handle recently had been fitted.

IN SHALLOW GRAVE

The isolated farm and adjoining woodland, combed by state troopers and volunteers since last Thursday morning, gave up their grim secret near the end of an all-day hunt yesterday.

In a clump of stunted birches and undergrowth, beyond the farm pastureland and three-quarters of a mile from the farmhouse, the bodies were found in a shallow grave, side by side and level to feet. Both were fully clothed.

The rain had caused the earth loosened earth spread over them, sink, revealing the bodies and the axe and his wife's upturned shoes.

Staslowsky had been struck twice on the head with the axe, once from behind, once on the forehead, the blows shattering his skull. His wife was struck once on the side of the face, her skull also being shattered. Upon their bodies Assistant Medical Examiner Arthur Merrill found no signs of other blows, evidently from the head or hands of the axe.

SLAIN OUTDOORS

The location and condition of the grave indicates that only one person was involved in the slaying and that it occurred close to where the bodies were found, police said.

Staslowsky, the man, a veritable giant of his kind, was 6 feet 10 inches tall, weighed 240 pounds. His wife, who was 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighed 165. Her body was taken to the trouble of carrying the three-quarters of a mile to the place where the bodies were found, police said.

The theory that the two were killed in the farmhouse was discarded when the bodies were found. The farmer wore a hat, through which the axe had passed, and that his wife wore a shawl.

Police think it likely they were forced to the spot where the bodies were found, probably in the hunt for a cow that had strayed from the pasture.

DOUBLE FUNERAL

Legal identification was made today at the undertaking establishment of W. C. R. Sullivan, who first suspected murder as the solution of the crime. Staslowsky, and related his suspicions to Staslowsky's attorney, Charles E. Sullivan, who is now in charge of the case.

About 35 relatives of the slain couple were questioned by Sheriff and police of Stow and Malden. A double funeral for the victims will be held tomorrow morning at St. Columba's church, Malden, and burial will be in that town.

WELCOME BAY STATE PARTY TO MAINE

Gov. Allen Heads Massachusetts Tercentenary Visitors to Pine Tree State

Kittery, Me., Aug. 11.—Accompanied by prominent officials and their wives Governor and Mrs. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts were welcomed to Maine today when the Pine Tree State joined in the Tercentenary celebration of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

With a company of marines drawn up as a guard of honor, Gov. William Tudor Corbett welcomed the visitors at Bangor Island, the historic spot where John Paul Jones' famous frigate Ranger was launched.

Gov. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire represented his state at the exercises.

The Massachusetts party, which arrived in automobiles, included Governor and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Chamberlain, Walter Perham, Mr. Andrew M. Andrews, Mrs. Irving Solby, Miss Sybil H. Holmes, Secretary of State and Mrs. Frederic W. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Batchelder, George McLachlan, of Massachusetts Bay State Colony Tercentenary committee and wife Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lambert and the governor's son.

STATE 10 YEARS.

The Pine Tree State was originally a part of the Massachusetts Bay Colony and much of its early history is interwoven with that of the Bay State. Maine became a state on March 15, 1820, after her record in 10 years of statehood, said Gov. Gardner in his address of welcome. "We treasure also the memory of events in these parts before the State was established. We take pride in the history of that part of the colonies known as the Province of Maine, for it contributed richly to the successful foundation of our country. We wish to honor the memory of the men and women who struggled for the settlement of this vast territory, which lies before you to the eastward. May we express our admiration for their perseverance, in loyalty and in faith."

Gov. Allen, who had ordered out Rear Admiral W. W. Phelps, commander of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, rendered selections at intervals during the program.

A committee headed by Senator Frank F. Gillette of the sixteen represented Kittery in the ceremonies.

PAGEANT AT YORK.

Following the exercises at Kittery the next day was made at York Harbor, where a pageant was being staged to mark the 300th anniversary of the history of York.

The next event on the program was to proceed to Portland where the state capital was to be presented the keys to the city. State military organizations were to figure in the parade.

From Portland the guests were to proceed to Augusta, the state capital, for a short stay and then to Bangor, where a state dinner was to be served at Bangor, and in the evening the delegates attend a performance of John Galsworthy's "Escape" by the Litchwood players.

Could we but share these many scenes—seeing them in an atmosphere of poetry and flowers, sunshine and shadow, fragrant and music "see them go trooping by—see them, others just swell the bow of the stately, the slight courtesies of others so real.

THE ARTIST'S TOUCH

If modern civilization has given birth to a new style in clothes, and a new style in dress, it is present as such, let cleverness of design go hand in hand with practicality and beauty. Let the requirements of the age dictate the dress. Let us recognize the new beauty of smartness, cleverness, and usefulness. Let us be sure the present styles are here to stay. I do believe that there will be some greater divergence in those that are present than in those that are to come.

And I hope there will be some more additions in the way of fulfilling the requirements of the age. Let us recognize the new beauty of smartness, cleverness, and usefulness. Let us be sure the present styles are here to stay. I do believe that there will be some greater divergence in those that are present than in those that are to come.

And those who cry aloud about the present day and those who rave about the drapery of the past either can be beautiful in their own way. The extremes of style should not blind us so that we cannot get a fair vision of the future.

So, I say, for my part—let us look to the present and let us see the requirements of the age dictate the dress. Let us recognize the new beauty of smartness, cleverness, and usefulness. Let us be sure the present styles are here to stay. I do believe that there will be some greater divergence in those that are present than in those that are to come.

I close with a sincere wish for the success of your picture "The Florodora Girl."

Hub Woman's Prize Letter

The following letter won first prize of $100 in the Boston contest. It was written by Mrs. W. F. Donovan, 30 Oak View ter., Jamaica Plain.

THE SPIRIT OF FREEDOM. One of the features in letter written by Mrs. W. F. Donovan, of 30 Oak View ter., Jamaica Plain, is typical in the photograph of Mrs. Donovan's daughter, Ellen.

"The spirit of 1930 is freedom for women." This is the theme of the letter which won the Boston area $100 prize for Mrs. W. F. Donovan of 30 Oak View ter., Jamaica Plain, in the Florida contest conducted by the Hearst newspapers.

Mrs. Donovan is the wife of Capt. Donovan of the Boston fire department, who is attached to the Roundtable station.

"Women should not relinquish the freedom in dress which they have won after years of struggle," said Mrs. Donovan. "They should never go back to the old restrictive, uncomfortable styles, especially in bathing suits."

"There is my ideal of a healthy, comfortable and comfortable bathing suit, and also my ideal of the modern girl."

As much as the modern woman loves the thrill of going places and doing all things with the same efficiency and coolness of the opposite sex, still a woman's instinct teaches her the value of charm, femininity and grace—and the beautiful, too—the minute evening gown is just that.

I believe the question of American style will settle itself ultimately with short skirts for days, and long for evenings. Feminine patterns of 1930 are displaying their independence regarding fashions to an extent quite alarming to style designers, and my opinion is quite apt to stage a Boston tea party with Parisian styles. Paris designers are losing their power to sway American women.

However, YOLTA will not be fettered. The spirit of 1930 is FREEDOM. Shorter than American independence. Why not keep out of "foreign entanglements."

CATHOLICS OPEN
DRIVE ON STAGE

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Catholic Church has begun a drive through public opinion to clean up the New York stage, which it denounces as an "outrage of public decency."

The campaign, under the auspices of Cardinal Hayes, is directed by Mr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, who in a letter to his parishioners declared that the New York stage this summer has become the "dishonor of America's finest, noblest and most hospitable of cities."

The letter was copied in the bulletin of the Catholic Theater Movement, headed by Cardinal Hayes in honorary president.

Re-write Any Advertisement in This Paper

(A "Humorad" is any advertisement rewritten in humorous vein without offense to advertiser or reader.)

Advertising and business are closely allied. The injection of humor very often relieves the serious tension, not only of business, but also of advertising. Joe Cook, the celebrated comedian who comes to R. K. O. Keith's Theatre in a Columbia Picture—"Rain or Shine"—on Saturday, August 16th, is declared by many to be the funniest man in the world.

If he were to write advertisements, there would be a laugh in every line of every ad. At the same time, no dignity would be lost, and no one would be offended. Our readers are invited to rewrite any advertisement or any part of any large advertisement in this paper as Joe Cook would write it. For the best Humorads, the Boston Evening American offers cash prizes and free admissions to see Joe Cook's film. Why not try your hand at this novel plan?

On this page you will see a sample advertisement that has been written in seriousness and the same ad, rewritten, as Joe Cook, the celebrated comedian, would write it. Why not try your hand at rewriting, in humorous vein, any of the ads or any part of any large advertisement appearing in this paper? Men, women and children of all ages are eligible.

and here's a little lift for you

2. When you have done this, mail your entry to Joe Cook, "Rain or Shine Humorad Editor," Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, as soon as possible.
3. All entries must be post-marked before Sunday, August 17th, at midnight.
4. The nine most humorous advertisements will receive cash prizes as follows:

1st Prize . . . $50
2nd Prize . . . $25
3rd Prize . . . $10
4th Prize . . . $5
and
5 Awards of . . . $2

5. The five best Humorads received each day will entitle the writer to two (2) tickets of admission to see Joe Cook in the Columbia Picture, "Rain or Shine" at Keith's R. K. O. Theatre during the seven-day period, beginning Saturday, August 16.
6. You may write as many Humorads as you wish. There is no limit to the number of entries.

(THE "HUMORAD")

What, You Ask? Ahhh! That's It! Value, maybe, but perhaps that's not all. Anything else you find you can keep—but this is no promise. Everywhere you turn, around here and there, you will find it here, and you will thank us with pride. We specialize in trunks for athletes, proving that no order is too big for us. TEXACO
MOTOR OIL

The new Texaco Motor Oil is here! It's longer-lasting! It's crack-proof! Here in this new oil are all the qualities which were never before obtainable in any one oil. There were oils that gave remarkable mileage. There were oils that flowed freely at zero. There were oils that were dewaxed and free from impurities that formed hard carbon. But not until now were all these desirable qualities to be found in any one single oil.

Because the new Texaco Motor Oil is crack-proof it does not break down under the high pressures and temperatures of the modern engine so as to form hard carbon. And because it is longer-lasting you get the benefit of increased mileage in every quart. The new Texaco is manufactured in five grades: C, D, E, F, and G, corresponding in body to S. A. E. (Society of Automotive Engineers) viscosity ratings. The price is 30c a quart (35c for Grade G). The right grade for your car is ready for you now. Drive in today.

10 ROUNDS
Babe Hunt, Oklahoma, vs. Jimmy Braddock, Jersey City.

By JACK CONWAY
Babe Hunt, Oklahoma heavyweight, and James J. Braddock of New Jersey are ready for the round of the prize which will send them into action in their ten-round bout at a Boston Garden show at Braves Field tonight.

The rival mitt fighters have been here for several days and went through the first stages of their training at local gyms. Hunt has been installed a 10 to 1 favorite on account of the fact he will have a weight advantage of 10 to 12 pounds which he sweeps in action.

Tonight's bout will mark the second outdoor experience in the Hub of both Hunt and Braddock this season.

Braddock made his bow when he scored a decisive victory over Joe Monte at an Arena Club show, Fenway Park. Joe Monte's prowess was left perfect in his eyes when he was knocked out. He would have been left with his head or body and when an opponent presented himself and his lighted crashing to the head or body, Braddock would have been left with his right hand when he knocked out Tuffy Griffin and Jimmy Slattery.

The Jersey warrior formerly was regarded as a heavy weight. On one occasion he made a fight for Tommy Lawrence's title but his drive fell short.

Braddock later started to pack weight and decided to enter the heavyweight class.

In his Boston debut, Hunt stopped Paul Panatello at Braves Field. Hunt is a big, powerful fellow, 170 pounds, with a left hook that is his best punch. This was the blow that knocked out the Italian for Paulin. The latter was nailed with the left back to the body and was sent down to a point where he was easy to hit.

Hunt used his right for the finishing smash. He gets considerable power behind his blows, but it is the left hook that is his best punch. The blow that knocked out the Italian for Paulin. The latter was nailed with the left back to the body and was sent down to a point where he was easy to hit.

Mathewson Alex MacLean has been installed a 25 to 1 favorite. Hunt is getting a 25 to 1 favorite.

The $12,000 stake at the Chocomaubout bout in New York has convinced MacLean that the fans will turn out if they are offered what they consider a good fight. Neither Chocomaubout nor Harry Allen are champions, but the fans will turn out if they are offered what they consider a good fight.

Jack Conway Picks Hunt to Win Over Braddock Tonight
Jack Conway tonight picked Babe Hunt to win from James J. Braddock in their 10-round bout at a Boston Garden show at Braves Field.

"Hunt will have a weight advantage and will have plenty of opportunity to give the big fellow a good knock-out," Conway said. "Braddock will have plenty of opportunity to knock out Tuffy Griffin and Jimmy Slattery. Conway's 1930 record follows:

BATTLES HUNT AT BRAVES FIELD

Babe Hunt, Oklahoma heavyweight, and James J. Braddock of New Jersey are ready for the round of the prize which will send them into action in their ten-round bout at a Boston Garden show at Braves Field tonight.

"Twixt Tee and Cup"

Any boy who was eligible for the Massachusetts junior championship can enter the Heald tournament, which will be held at the Wollaston Golf Club beginning August 25.

Two years ago, Joe Lynch defeated Bill Donnelly in the finals of the Heald junior championship. Lynch and Donnelly went through an exceptionally fast field to reach the finals but it now appears as though the second year would be much faster than the one staged at the Blue Hill Country Club.

With few exceptions every promising youth in New England will participate at Wollaston. Already such stars as Bill Donnelly, George Moore, Eddie Bennett, Melville Smith, Leon K. Emerson, John Barbour, Bobby Hopkins, Charlie Pickering, John, Tommy and Teddy Quinn, Jimmie O'Leary, Teddy Larkin, Jimmie Gannon, Bobby Hunter, Paul McCreedy, Don Ritchie and Harold McNeil have entered the Heald.

Tommy Quinn, who played the last ten holes of the qualifying round of the juniors at Belmont in even 44, will be closely watched at Wollaston. Little Tommy is recognized as one of the most promising young golfers in the East and despite the fact that he has never played the Memorial course, he will be in the 50s for the qualifying round.

If he is able to keep in check and play his normal game, Harold McNeil, a caddy from the Country Club, will be a dangerous contender for the Heald title. "Gopher" is one of the youngest players in the tournament and he is in the low 70s at the Country Club many times. Overhaughman has been the downfall of young McNeil in caddy and junior championships.

Notes of the Sandlots

By virtue of their 3-2 tie with the Somerville Cubs last week, the William J. Mahoney nine of Roxbury can now be classed with the outstanding semi-pro teams in Greater Boston.

Manager Mahoney has been building up his team gradually. He felt that the time was ripe to step out and announce a campaign to bring high class clubs into Roxbury to meet the outfit named after the outstanding semi-pro team in Greater Boston.

The Mahoneys should have been on the Cubes. A brilliant catch by Jimmy Paulino, robbed "Boss" Connolly of Boston Cubs of the title in the ninth with men on base. McCarthy, hitting for the Mahoneys, held the Cubes in five batters.

Frank Cavanaugh, star hurler of the St. Mark's nine of Dorchester, has won 15 games for the "Saints" this season and has dropped one. On the staff with him is Ed Mulcahey, who was one of the best pitchers in Greater Boston two years ago, but who is just coming back. "Muggsy" is pitching better every time he takes the mound but the long layoff has made him less effective than Cavanaugh.

Averages for Cape Cod League baseball have not been let out as yet. When they arrive the nation's best players will be in the Boston and Boston Clubs should be in the position to get the first.

Paddy has been hitting often and very hard. Many of his blows are being hit home. Paddy would be a big league prospect but for the fact that he is the son of a poor man.

Johnny Murphy, the Somerville ball player, is rapidly becoming a star in the Cape Cod circuit. He has been playing the game for several years and is the most famous ball player in the Cape Cod circuit. Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

Today is Monday, and we pick up the burden of our daily affairs cheerfully, realizing that Saturday afternoon, when the prospect of the duties of the week is laid aside, is a time when we are all pretty much employed—and even so. Nevertheless we are all pretty much employed—and even so. Nevertheless we are all pretty much employed—and even so.

After which few remarks we like to talk just a bit about our column. It will be patiently awaited. We are trying hard to make it a touch of something from the heart. We are trying hard to make it a touch of something from the heart.

What we wish to accomplish is to write as much as possible in a tone of verbal appeal. We are trying hard to make it a touch of something from the heart. We are trying hard to make it a touch of something from the heart.

Choice Ways of Filling Cake

From Martha Lee's Monday morning broadsheet over WTTB by the Boston Evening American.

WE'VE BEEN doing so much cake making lately that I thought it would be a good idea to frost our cakes today.

As a general thing it is best to frost cakes while they are slightly warm, although, of course, not warm enough to make the frosting run. And remember—the icing for cakes should be beaten until it is perfectly smooth and thick enough to hold its shape.

Baked frosting cakes should be beaten until it is perfectly smooth and thick enough to hold its shape.

Martha Lee

bright day to make them. Here is a favorite baked frosting recipe:

ROILED FROSTING
1 c. granulated sugar.
1/2 c. hot water.
1/2 c. lemon juice.
1 egg white.
Dissolve sugar and lemon juice in hot water and beat without stirring until syrup will spin a thread (232 F.). Let cool slightly while beating one egg white stiff. Then pour hot syrup over egg in slow stream, beating well. When it thickens and is perfectly smooth, pour over cake. This can be tinted delicately with vegetable coloring paste, if desired.

CARAMEL FROSTING
1 1/2 c. brown sugar.
1/2 c. cream.
1 tsp. butter.
1 tsp. vanilla.
Combine sugar and cream and boil until the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (238 F.). Add butter and vanilla, beat until creamy, then spread quickly. One cup of chopped nuts may be added just before spreading.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE FROSTING
1 1/2 cups sugar.
1/2 cup cocoa.
1/2 cup butter.
1/2 cup milk.
1/2 cup vanilla.
Combine sugar and cocoa, add butter, milk and salt. Boil until the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (238 F.). Beat until creamy, add flavoring. Spread quickly.

MARSHMALLOW FROSTING
2 tbsp. gelatin.
2 cups cold water.
2 cups sugar.
1 cup hot water.
1 cup lemon juice.
1 egg white.
Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Boil syrup, water and lemon juice until the syrup spins a thread (232 F.). Pour hot syrup over dissolved gelatin, stirring continuously. Add this mixture to beaten egg whites and beat until thick. Add a thick filling of this between the cake layers.

Well, we've pretty well finished up our cake making season, haven't we? And I do hope that I will receive a lot of letters telling me that your problem of "why does my cake rise to a peak in the center?" or "why do my cakes fall?" or "why do my cakes have big air holes?" will be satisfactorily solved.

Faithfully yours,
Martha Lee

SKIPPERS' PASTIES
Roll out about 1/4 pound of flaky crust or rough puff paste to about 1/4 of an inch in thickness. Cut the paste into oblong pieces of even size, about three inches broad. Place two "skippers" on each piece of paste. Put on top of the fish a little finely chopped gherkin or a little chopped chutney. Wet the edges of the paste and fold over like a sausage. Roll and press down the side of the paste and flake the cut end with the point of a knife. Put the pasties on a greased baking sheet. Brush over the surface of the paste with beaten eggs or milk. Sprinkle over a few rather coarsely-chopped nuts and bake in a fairly hot oven. It will take from 10 to 15 minutes. Dish up neatly, garnish with sprigs of parsley and serve hot or cold.

Canning Notes

GINGER AND WATERMELON PRESERVES
Make a ginger tea by boiling one ounce of ginger (four level tablespoons) with 1 quart of water for 15 minutes. Strain, watermelon rind, cutting into inch squares (peel it carefully) and adding 2 quarts of water and 1 ounce of lime to each pound of rind. Let stand 12 hours. Rinse well and let stand an hour or two. Drain well. Boil 10 minutes in the ginger tea. Lift out and put into fruited syrup made by using 1 pint of ginger tea, 3 quarts of water and 1 1/2 cups of sugar. Boil half an hour and add half a lemon sliced thin. Boil until clear (about two hours). Pack into hot boiled jars and seal tight at once.

BAKED APPLES CANNED WITH SUCCESS.
Prepare baked apples as for table use. Remove from the baking and pack hot, filling the jars to overflowing with a boiling sugar syrup with two parts of water to one part of sugar. Small sweet early pears can be spiced and baked in the same way. For extra safety process after sealing for 15 minutes in hot water bath.

WHEN PACKING THE picnic basket remember that cottage cheese and jelly between buttered Graham bread makes sandwiches that are especially wholesome for the little folks. Finely chopped pruned with peanut butter is also popular and wholesome for Junior. Finely minced cabbage salad and celery mixed with a little mayonnaise makes a delicious buttered white wheat bread can be given in quite small children.

Macaroni a Popular Food

Macaroni is one of our most popular and economical foods. Popular because it is simple and easy to prepare and liked by all the family. It is interchangeable with rice and potatoes and can take the place of either of these food items very nicely in salads or more hearty dishes. Economical because it is 100 per cent efficient. There is no waste in macaroni or spaghetti. Every bit of it is used, both to serve on the table and by the body for growth and energy.

Macaroni, spaghetti and noodle, balanced by leafy vegetables and fruits, make delicious and economical dishes, good for body building and repair.

This delicious Delmonico Finnan Haddie is an economical and "different" dish for the warm weather. Combined with macaroni it furnishes sufficient protein and should be properly balanced by a crisp green salad.

This brings $5 to its author, Mrs. Mrs. Haddie of 54 Lambert St., Medford, Mass.

Tips on Use of Lemons

"A little private laboratory" work with lemons has developed a few lemon "aids" which I want to tell you about," said my friend the business woman, unfolding her luncheon napkin. "Lemons are such harmless bleachers and whiteners of the skin on face and hands, that it occurred to me to use lemon juice in whitening some fine old lace I wanted to use this summer. By adding the juice of one lemon and a tiny bit of shining to the water in which the lace was boiled, I brought it back to snowy whiteness, and it's really lovely."

For copper or brass that becomes stained and dulled the cut end of a lemon dipped in salt is an excellent cleanser. As you probably know, and, of course, the whitening and tonic effect of lemon on the skin is an old story, but I've found a new use for it, too. Instead of a heavy foundation cream, which so often cakes up in the hot weather, I apply clear lemon juice generously after washing my face in the morning. Powder sticks some slightly sticky surface to cling to, and you'll find that after putting on a slight artificial tan, the powder nicely blends acting as a slight artificial tan, the powder nicely blends acting as a slight artificial tan, the powder nicely blends acting as a slight artificial tan.

day, and continuing its bleaching operations under the powder. Lemon juice is best, as any glycerine mixture is apt to be too greasy.

work out if the day is warm. "Did you know that if lemons become old and dry you can restore them to plump juiciness by soaking for two hours in hot water? Although, if they are as popular in your home as they are in mine, they won't have a chance to get old and dry. And now don't let me say another word, till I finish this salad—I'm famished."

POOR health is a distinct drawback to progress in business or social life. Underweight, lack of appetite, sluggishness, a dull mentality, nervousness and even skin disorders—boils and pimples—show their mark on the body, face and mind when the red-bloods are deficient in number. (See enlarged blood picture above.) Moreover a low red-blood-cell count makes the system an easy prey to disease. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is dangerous.

WHEN IT'S R-K-O, it's a tiptop show! So one feels after sitting through the vaudeville bill this week at the Keith-Albee. On soreren the theater offers Jack Mulhall in "The Fall Guy." The film is cleverly done, but the footlight fare is a few steps ahead of it in class. This is a special month for Radio-Keith-Orpheum, and promise is made for continued variety acts of high merit.

THE HEADLINERS are the attractive and capable Gloria Fox, Sam Greenstein and Ann Davis. This is their debut as vaudevilles, but woe of them is ample "legit" experience, so they go over big. They have a snappy sketch entitled "Stars in Satire," in the course of which they do imitations or burlesque of Gloria Gaiño, Maurice Chevalier, Jack

"THE FALL GUY" looks better in voice and vista, than it did on stage. Certainly it hasn't lost anything in its transfer to the sound screen. It is crammed with fun, and Mr. Mulhall does a pretty good job as the white collar chap who turns to hoodluming when he loses his office job.

members. The other day I saw him dragging himself wearily into the apartment building with his wife, Isabelle Keith, bringing up the rear with makeup and wearing costume. "How long?" I asked. He then told me we were producing a series of two-reel comedies with Harry Edwards starring. In the cast are Mike Keith, Mona Ray, who played Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Georgia Harris, Vernon Dent and Flora Finch. Apparently Mr. Weil finds it as much more difficult to be a producer than a writer.

MAURICE CHEVALIER'S farewell night at the Roosevelt will be put down in film history. The 35-year-old singer and actor, who has been a favorite of the farewell party the like of which has never been seen even in ancient Greece, will be the first to leave Hollywood's theatrical district in a limousine. He will be surrounded by a crowd of adulating and deluging imitations of well-known French actors for over an hour and he will be the last to leave the city. He is so popular that he has been so entertained that there were cries of "Bravo—more, more!" in his own inimitable fashion. He picked up a bouquet of flowers from Mrs. Schulberg, Al Coffman, Adolph Zukor, Walter Wanger and Ernest Lubitch. He sang a song to the crowd assembled to pay homage to Mary Pickford. He kissed Douglas Fairbanks on the cheek. He was escorted by the Mayor.

Mrs. Fairbanks was visibly moved. "He is a great man," she murmured. "He has passed off his life in a blaze of glory." The other French song Hollywood loves Chevalier. No actor in 10 years has had his popularity and

WE ARE ALWAYS GLAD when we hear that one of the favorites of the silent film days is getting a break. Marie Mosquini, who in the days when she was in the Hal Roach comedies was called the girl with the best figure in pictures, is on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. Marie is playing a part in "New Moon," the Lawrence Tibbets picture.

SNASHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Jeanne Lankester proving himself a real hit with his speech made at Maurice Chevalier's farewell party at the Waldorf; the actress dancing with her hair worn longer during again and again at the Chevalier party; Mrs. Allan Dwan dancing with her husband; Harry Tierney the same night at the Roosevelt; Mrs. B. P. Schulberg in a white frock with pink roses dancing with Chevalier; Ernest Lubitz, Pauline Stark and her husband Jack White, at the Chevalier party with the Hunt Stromberg, Mrs. J. P. Morgan and her husband with Harg Kraly, Carl Laemmle, Sr. with Rosabelle, his daughter, and her husband at the opening of the new Waldorf; and a shopping busy these days for an interesting event. That's all to-

These are a few of the Bostonians who later became famous in their lines, and who got the start in the variety theaters in the early nineties and late eighties, not forgetting the writer Frank Caverly of the North End and of the team of Raymond and Caverly.

THE WINDSOR THEATRE stood at the corner of State and Dover sts. It was an unusual structure, with a seating capacity of 1,100. It was run by George Lothrop, as a combination of a playhouse and a circus attractions den, and, far from being a success, it was a failure. The style of the Howard, Charles Burnham was stage manager. Charles Turner, who had been in the theatre since 1880, was later turned into a d.m. museum. A few years ago it was torn down and never rebuilt.

The San Jose Theatre was near the corner of Tremont and Boylston, where the present American Theatre now stands. Charles V. Turner, who had been in the theatre since 1880, was later turned into a d.m. museum. A few years ago it was torn down and never rebuilt.

Raquel Returns to Her Old Desert Home at Mother's Request

Chapter 61

Raquel Rojas Parker hurried into a rocky dry canyon of the rocky train and selected a seat toward the rear of the car.

Ahead of her, a half-dozen gentlemen in broad hats and bright-colored cotton blouses disposed themselves awkwardly on the worn, red plush cushions. Two or three young gentlemen, as one knew by the city cut of the clothes, had parked bulky cases and bags on racks and along the aisle—travelling salesman, out to dispose of their wares.

One of the gentlemen, Raquel noticed, was a young man of a deep watermelon pink and a gray stare all over his face, which he had in his hand. He was looking at her with a stare that she had never seen before. He was looking at her with a stare that she had never seen before.

Lucy Wants Her Raquel Goes West

Lucy, her mother, had wanted her to go west. How much only one who knew Lucy, and a few others, knew that she was not going to go west. She was not going to go west. She was not going to go west.

What's in Fashion? Three New Dress Winners!

Center: Balcony dress
Right: Low bloused pattern

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—What are going to be some of the most-fashion dresses this fall? The dresses any woman can buy and wear with absolute surety of the fashion-rightness?

Here are three of the winners. And it's easy to see why. They'll give you the satisfactory feeling of being a very important part of the good-to-look-fall, 1930, picture.

It may be a direct contrast to such as a black dress with pink trim. Or it may be a harmonizing contrast.

Forts as Playgrounds

Good Use for Government Property

Former Senator James H. Brennan's suggestion that the Government's property, including the abandoned forts in Boston harbor, be converted into playgrounds and recreation facilities for the poor of Boston in the summer months, is the product of an alert and thoughtful brain.

The National Government invested many millions of dollars in these properties, mostly, it is true, when national officials of sturdy American fibre had some comprehension of their duty to establish adequate military defenses for their common country. And now, either by the march of antiquity which has made these fortifications obsolete or by the progress of pacifist propaganda which has sterilized the patriotism and intellectuality of our present crop of officeholders, these reservations have been permitted to lapse into disuse.

We have heard much campaign talk of the efficiency of our administration at Washington and much, indeed, of its plans to outlaw poverty and to bestow wealth and contentment upon all our people with a lavish hand.

If it is as efficient as it claims to be, it will not permit the Government's enormous investments in these properties to go entirely to waste, providing no compensating return whatever. If it is as benevolent as it claims to be, it will allow them to be used for the pleasure and enjoyment of our poor children who have been sweltering on the blistering pavements of the city streets.

Eventually we will get a government which will return to first principles and redefend these strategic positions to the patriotic purposes for which they were originally designed.

We're Over 4,000,000

Massachusetts Does Well in Census

Massachusetts, for the first time in her history, has attained an official population in excess of four millions. The exact figure, as given out by the census officials, is 4,293,444, and they admit that retabulations are being made which are likely to increase even that number.

The population increased 401,290, since the last census was taken. That is a gain of 10.4 per cent.

An analysis will reveal that both numerically and proportionally our advance outstripped that of twenty-one of the other States, and that those States which happened to eclipse us had as a whole the attractions of larger areas and undeveloped lands.

If you accept the inescapable theory that man-power is the true wealth of a community you can derive ample satisfaction from the tale contained of Massachusetts in these census statistics.

Work for 1800 Persons

Good news of better times.

The Boston & Maine Railroad announces that along its lines in eastern Massachusetts four industrial developments will be begun at once which will require an immediate expenditure of $2,250,000 and give employment to in excess of 1800 persons.

One of the industries brings its Chicago plant to us. Another will move 10,000 tons of material annually through the port of Boston that formerly was enjoyed by New York.

When we contemplate this in connection with the fact that a new industry has sprung up in Boston at the rate of every three days this year we can face the future with a show of confidence.

A New Labor Chief

James T. Moriarty Well Equipped for Important Post

Mr. James T. Moriarty begins his Presidency of the Massachusetts State Board of the American Federation of Labor at a season when his progressive talents and long experience can be of great advantage to the labor movement.

His problems will be many and they are widely diffused, ranging as they do from the abuse of injunctions which deprive workers of their legal rights to the possible breaking down of beneficent labor laws by such unscrupulous employers as would take advantage of the struggle for jobs to fix outrageous wages and working conditions.

Those who saw him contesting for the Initiative and Referendum as a member of the State's last constitutional convention can expect him to be a fearless and sagacious leader.

Capital, 18 Cents

Gross Profit, 35

You don't need a million dollars to start in business for yourself—not if you know how.

C. A. Scherholz, of Bethlehem, Pa., was approached recently by a stranger who asked him for the loan of 11 cents. The stranger said that he already had 7 cents, but required more capital. Scherholz gave him the money.

Two days later the stranger returned and repaid the 11 cents. He explained that he had needed a total of 18 cents to buy two cans of wallpaper remover, and that he had then gone on a house-to-house canvass and made $5.

WHEN IT'S TOO LATE

The Coast Guard's slogan still appears to be "Shoot first—afterward." Another innocent man—a husband and a father—shot by over-zealous Coast Guards that were again too quick on the trigger. Of course, there will be the usual

McINTYRE ABROAD

By O. O. McIntyre

COPENHAGEN—We flew from the Berlin airport early Sunday for Steffen, changing into a sea plane for a squint at this much talked about city. The seaplane pilot, violet eyed and apple checked, coaxed a wan smile from me in his effort to assure everything was all right, yes, sir.

At intervals he stuck his head out of a booth like Jack-in-the-box to bestow encouraging signs. He was a feeble effort to smart crack in all languages including the Scandinavian—a Great Dane, Copenhagen, on the eastern shore of the island of Zealand, has a population of 200,000.

A smaller nearby island forms a harbor which is a great commercial seaport. I associate this capital of Denmark with Dr. Frederick A. Cook. As a telegraph editor, I handled news of his polar pilgrimage which came from there. The world hung on Copenhagen dispatches. Or Kobenhavn as they spell it here.

Through universities, museums and art, the city gained the sobriquet of "Athens of the North." The most common name of the city is "Athens of the North." The most common name of the city is "Athens of the North."

It is housed in the imposing Ny Carlsberg Glyptothek—the exhibit of Roman busts now occupying an entire wing. Historic moats of 12th century Copenhagen are enticing boulevards now. Streets in the old town are narrow and ancient gabled houses jostle the new. The language is lyrical after German.

Great fires have devastated the city often. Copenhagen's chief square is King's New Market, marked by an equestrian statue of Christian V. Another section—Nord, I should say—is the aristocratic area, where thoroughbred cars are seen. The magnificent palace of the King is here.

The palace is surrounded by a large park, where children love to play and in the playground is a statue of Hans Christian Andersen, friend of all children, and before which I removed my pearl hat in appreciative manner. Copenhagen women are Japanese, with smiles suggesting subterfuge in porcelain.

The city's meeting place is a democratic center called Tivoli Gardens—a mixture of Palm Beach and Coney, with park, theater, concert hall and enormous restaurant. Everybody, from children to graybeards, rides a bicycle. Streets jam with them and they have the right of way. It strikes me a mere guess—wealth is more evenly divided here than in most countries. This has nothing to do with Denmark, but I just remember I left New York owing a lot of money.

There is nothing of hurry and confusion. Life crawls, but somehow twiddles. It could give New York lessons in achieving leisure. After filling up a "douceur," one cafe offers 40-1 resched a lizard-like torpority in taking things easy. The Scandinavian version of cranked headings, by the way, is a lulu.

In a book shop window was a sign in English: "These books are barred in Germany." France? If literature is that hot, no wonder the fire.

One feels the dual influence of Gling and Hansen—every music and static salience. Outdoor cafe tables have the most intriguing of the world top clothes. Dances tipple heavily at 40-1. Strong drinks but no strong music. And they still have a "Skol," although I never heard a drinker say "Prost!" in Germany.

Copenhagen is as light as moonday at 3 a. m. I read an American newspaper going home in a cab at that hour. And on the way a local boulevardier with monocle and hair parted expertly down the back was quite soberly inspecting the primeval splendor of a church window. I got out to look, too, and his withering glance indicated he never suspected I left Plattburg. Some twenty years ago.

In Denmark many who wear the ridiculous name Odd. It was worth the trip here to learn others are similarly embarrassed.

Women in Men's Clothes

No One Thinks Anything About It

TWO ENGLISH SWIMMING GIRLS "DRESSED"

These are two champion swimmers of England, sisters, Miss Joyce and Miss Doreen Cooper, dressed as they appear ordinarily on the beach, in what seems to be a cross between overalls and a sailor's suit.

Underneath the men's suits are swimming suits. They slip off the outer clothing and are ready to swim. They go up and down peacefully in these "men's suits," thousands of other women all over the world do the same, and nobody thinks it strange.

And yet a little while ago "Dr. Mary Walker," a mild, thin little American woman, was hounded, laughed at, followed in the street, hissed and arrested because she went out in men's trousers, frock coat, silk hat and cane, to "assert her right to dress as men do."

First some one breaks the ice, then everybody shouts "Horrors!"

The pioneers are criticized, laughed at. Then the new idea spreads. Now, at Palm Beach or Antibes, north in Maine or at San Diego, you may see thousands of women in men's clothing of all kinds, and sometimes so little of it that you hardly notice it.

They wear pajamas, overalls, imitation sailor suits—in fact, what they please, as long as they show as much caution as Eve did, after she ate the apple.

Will you see the day when girls will go to their work dressed as these sister swimmers are dressed? Why not?

The skirt is only a symbol of the slavery to which woman submitted for centuries.
